1

Cayo Levisa, a true paradise, just for you

Cuba has the privilege of offering lots of surprising beaches. But there's one that stands out from the pack: Cayo Levisa. This is surely one of the most beautiful keys in Cuba, close to Viñales, within reach of only the few, because since it's so close to the US mainland, Cubans aren't allowed to travel here.

Cayo Levisa is an unparalleled, virgin paradise where you won't find any crowds. Once you get here, ask for Punta Arena —where you're in for a surprise. Wherever you look, you'll only see white sand and turquoise-blue sea... making you feel like Adam and Eve for a day.

Diving like you've never done before

Scuba diving is something everyone should do at least once in a lifetime. But if you really want to enjoying some spectacular sea beds full of dazzling life and incredible fish, Cuba is the perfect place for it.

María La Gorda, Cayo Levisa, Playa Girón and Faro Luna are ideal sites for diving like you've never seen before, giving you an incredibly unique experience.

Get your tanks and fins ready, and jump in!

3

Viñales, one of the most spectacular nature areas in Cuba

Tall pine trees, limestone mountains and quiet tobacco plantations. The Viñales national park is a privileged site listed as UNESCO World Heritage where you won't even want to blink so as not to miss any of its unique beauty.

But apart from its natural beauty, you can also tour Cuba's main tobacco growing area by visiting a nearby working plantation, at the famous Robaima estate, where the jewel of this area is called: the Alejandro Robaima plantation.

Whether you're a cigar smoker or not, this place is one-of-a-kind and deserves a visit.

Isla de la Juventud, a paradise for shellfish lovers

Cuba is world famous for many reasons: the people, the culture, its natural paradises, beaches and, of course, the exquisite cuisine. On Isla Juventud, you won't just enjoy the magic of the island and its incredible beaches. You'll also go crazy over its exquisite culinary lineup, such as fresh fish and seafood, brought directly from the sea to your table.

In addition, you can savor a wide range of tasty and mouthwatering national dishes that you'll find difficult to believe.

5

Step onto the same beach that Christopher Columbus first landed on

On any trip to Cuba, soaking up the sun and then getting cool in the crystal-clear turquoise waters that bathe the coast of this beautiful island is a must. Millions of tourists come to these beaches year after year.

But there are also remote, deserted beaches steeped in an atmosphere of peace and quiet. So if it's tranquility you're looking for, the Barjay National Park offers beaches like Gibara, set amongst the beauty of nature.

You won't just enjoy an impressive beach, but you'll actually be stepping on the same sand, and swimming on the same beach, where Christopher Columbus first landed on October 28, 1492 when he arrived in Cuba.

The experience of lying on this sand or bathing in the sea here is something that is priceless. And you only have to do one thing: just relax and enjoy.

6

Mingle with the locals

In all the guidebooks you might read before traveling to Cuba, they recommend visiting the beaches, enjoying nature at its best, tasting the local rum... but they always forget the best of Cuba—its people.

Cubans carry that joy and enthusiasm in their very blood, with a permanent smile on their faces. They're warm, friendly and charming, and they're sure to make you feel at home at all times. So take this chance to mix and mingle with them, and learn their customs and traditions from the inside.

Just relax and improvise, like they do, and live a unique and unrepeatable experience.

Le Parisién, even more than the hotel nacional

Every night, the Parisién gets ready for a new show, full of lights and music, for a huge spectacle called "Cuban, Cuban"—a show featuring the best of Cuba and its music and dance scene. This happens in the incomparable backdrop of the famous Hotel Nacional, where you can dance and enjoy all the popular Cuban songs.

Visiting the Parisien Cabaret is the right way to learn all the rhythms that make Havana vibrate. You'll spend an unforgettable night dancing to the best Cuban music you'll ever find.
